Context-Informed Perspectives of Child Risk and Protection in Israel

- Provides new insights in risk, maltreatment, well-being and protection of children in diverse communities
- Addresses the need for a context-informed perspective in designing prevention and intervention programs for children at risk and their families
- Explores potential contribution to theory, research, practice and training in the area of child maltreatment

This volume adopts a context-informed framework exploring risk, maltreatment, well-being and protection of children in diverse groups in Israel. It incorporates the findings of seven case studies conducted at the Hebrew University of Jerusalem's NEVET Greenhouse of Context-Informed Research and Training for Children in Need. Each case study applies a context-informed approach to the study of perspectives of risk and protection among parents, children and professionals from different communities in Israel, utilizing varied qualitative methodologies. The volume analyses the importance of studying children and parents' perspectives in diverse societies and stresses the need for a context-informed perspective in designing prevention and intervention programs for children at risk and their families living in diverse societies. It further explores potential contribution to theory, research, practice, policy and training in the area of child maltreatment.
